Martine Calache is a board certified second generation homeopathic practitioner who has been practicing over 30 years. Her mother was a homeopath in Belgium and extended her knowledge and expertise to Martine. Martine received her training from world renowned homeopaths in her native country of Belgium by Dr. Jacques Imberechts. When she relocated to the United States, her homeopathic education continues with world renowned homeopath and teacher Dr. Luc De Schepper M.D. She continued her mother's legacy and shared her education with her daughter as well. Martine instituted an educational program for lay persons and professionals to learn the great art of medicine, homeopathy. Her school is named First Class Homeopathy. She travels all over the world teaching seminars and assisting people with their needs.
